VOL. 6.

MORGANTOWN, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, MARCH 19, 1891.

THE REPUBLICAN

H. M. RIVES, Editor.
J. T. RIVES, Publisher.
$1.00 Per Annum in Advance

For Governor,
W. O. BRADLEY,
of Lancaster.

We are authorized to announce A. J. Snodgrass as a candidate for the Legislature for Butler and Edmonson counties, subject however to the action of the Republican party.

In one thing at least the last session of the fifty-first Congress did not disappoint the Republicans of the country—it died on the day it was expected to die. For that much thanks.

Mr. Cleveland has not written a letter for nearly a month, but perhaps he thought it wise to let up for a while after perusing the last one. He should write one more, addressed jointly to David B. Hill, of New York, and Henry Watterson, of Kentucky.

Are the Farmer's Alliance and Knights of Labor fully committed to woman suffrage? One would naturally suppose so from some of the speeches made at the National Woman Suffrage Convention recently held at Washington. This question is asked in no spirit of sceptic opposition, but from an honest desire for information.

How many people know that the present silver law is practically five cents of all silver produced by American mines; that is to say, that the 4,000,000 ounces of silver bullion which the Treasury Department is compelled by law to buy each month is worth more than the average amount produced by all of the American mines? That shows how unfriendly the Republican party is to silver doesn't it?

We desire to specially call the attention of our Democratic trade friends to a few solid facts, which like all other facts present the only convincing argument known to poor weak doubting human nature: When the McKinley bill was pending, and indeed after it had become a law, you insisted that it was absurd to put a tariff on linen, because the country could not build and successfully operate linen mills. The tariff was put on linen, and the result is, that three linen mills are already in operation in the New England States, while others are being built and equipped as rapidly as possible at Minneapolis, at Eau Claire, Wis., and at Sioux Falls, South Dakota. So much for one free trade prediction. Now, for another. All during the last campaign, the working men were told by Democratic editors and orators that the tariff on tin plates put a tax upon his dipper and dinner bucket, notwithstanding they knew, or should have known, that the tin plate section of the McKinley bill would not become a law until July 1, 1891. Now for the effect of that law upon American industries. Before its enactment not a pound of tin plate was made in the United States, now American mills are turning it out by the ton and more than a dozen large mills are in process of erection in various sections of the country, and the tin mines in this country are being worked for the first time profitably, and most important of all, the price of tin plate is today in Chicago and New York, twenty per cent less than it was last September, and dealers are predicting that it will be still cheaper at the end of the year. This is a plain statement of hard, solid facts, which can be fully proven.

Cardinal Gibbons seems to be level headed on the women question. Here is a bit of advice he gave them in a recent sermon: "I said you are the queen of the domestic kingdom. If you would retain that empire shun the political arena, avoid the rostrum, beware of unsexing yourselves. If you become embroiled in political agitation the queenly aureole that encircles your brow will fade away and the reverence that is paid to you will disappear. If you have a vain ambition of reigning in public life, your domestic empire will be at an end."

The Democrats are howling themselves hoarse because the Republican Congress, which believed in keeping the money of the country in active circulation, is not hoarding it, to the public injury, as the Cleveland administration did, has made liberal appropriations. The law is not favoring the Republicans who know that the country will get full value received for every dollar appropriated, and that the money will do much good circulating among the people than lying idle in the Treasury, and who are perfectly willing to let the people render their own verdict on what they have done.

Dr. James, one of the Republican members of the Constitutional Convention, said yesterday that he was glad "The Times" was fair enough and penetrating enough to see and publish the political phase of the Legislative appointment matter. "I came here," he said, "as a Republican, politically, and a Campbellite, religiously, but with no other determination than to work for fair play to the whole State without respect to sect or party. The leaving of the appointment matter to the Legislature, however, means nothing else but that our party is to be gerrymandered out of what little representation it is entitled to. It is natural for the Democratic party or Legislatures to do it. It is the duty of the convention to see that fair play is preserved for it. If they think it can't see how they can expect anything but that every one of the 145,000 Republican voters in the State will oppose the new constitution, and how with these added to the disappointed element in the Democratic ranks, they expect their work to be ratified. I, for one, will oppose it, and I believe all the people of my party in the convention and out of it will, and should do likewise.—Louisville Times.

Judge Forgy, the delegate from Butler, is an old fashioned gentleman, after my own heart, and the matter of "pumpkin pies." That is to say, he is fond of them, and is not ashamed to say so. He came to the Frankfort Capital office a few days since and gave me the following from a Times paper, which he requested should be published as a compliment to the Meriwether Hotel, whose pumpkin pies, he says, are unsurpassed: "How dear to the heart is the yellow-backed pumpkin when orchards are barren of anything for pies when peaches and apples have both been a failure, and berries of no kind have greeted the eyes. How fondly we turned to the fruit of the cornfield, the fruit that our children are taught to despise, the old yellow pumpkin, the mud covered pumpkin, the big bellied pumpkin that makes such good pies." Of course the manager of Meriwether's will not hesitate to say our bill of a dollar per line for this advertisement of his house.

Peoples Party Meeting.

Pursuant to a call signed by many voters of Butler County a meeting was held in Morgantown, Ky., March 9th, 1891 for the purpose of organizing a Peoples Party in accord with the organization in other states. The meeting was called in order by Judge Guffy. Thor. J. Ward was elected president and J. W. Foster chosen secretary. Judges B. L. B. Guffy, T. D. Harrold, W. H. White, J. A. Gardner and J. D. Sharrar were appointed a committee on resolutions who, after retiring, reported the following, which were unanimously adopted.

Resolved, 1st. That we denounce the free and unlimited coinage of silver the same as it was before it was demonetized by the act of 1873.
2nd. We are opposed to banks of issue. No more should be organized, and those already chartered should be discontinued as soon as possible under the law.
3rd. We favor the enactment of such laws as will effectually prevent dealing in futures of agricultural and mechanical products.
4th. We are opposed to the alienation of lands.
5th. We are opposed to any and all systems of taxation, state or national that has for its object the building up of one class or interest at the expense of another class.
6th. That the means of communication and transportation should be controlled by the government in the interest of the whole people.

7th. Inasmuch as the burdens of the debtor and laboring classes have been greatly increased by legislation it is therefore indispensible that the government by some well guarded plan, loan money to the people at not exceeding two per cent interest, in sums sufficient to enable the people to recover from the effects of the unjust financial policy heretofore imposed on them.

8th. We believe the government should take to each Union soldier the difference between currency and specie at the time he was paid in paper money, with interest added, and to meet such payment Congress caused to be issued a sufficient quantity of treasury notes, making them full legal tender for all debts public and private, except bonds heretofore issued payable in gold and silver. Such payment to the soldiers would be only just to them, and would be a great blessing to the people at large.

9th. A convention is hereby called to meet in Morgantown, Ky., the second Monday in May next to nominate a candidate to represent Butler and Edmonson Counties in the next general Assembly.

10th. We suggest that a State convention be held in Covington, Ky., the 20th of next May, to nominate a People's candidate for Governor and other state officers and all voters of this county who endorse the foregoing resolutions are appointed delegates to such convention if it be held.

J. M. Cook, Judge B. L. D. Guffy, R. V. Jenkins, A. K. Sublett, Morgan Cook, N. G. Blowers and all other voters of this County who endorse the foregoing resolutions hereby appointed delegates to the National convention called to meet in Cincinnati, Ohio, the 19th of May, 1891.

J. B. Sharer, J. M. Cook and T. D. Harrold are appointed a provisional committee for this Congressional district with power to take the necessary steps to perfect our organization in this district. Persons desiring to aid the organization are invited to address the committee at Woodbury, Morgantown or Davenport, Ky.

Resolved, That a copy of the foregoing proceedings be sent to the Courier-Journal, Green River Republican, Morgantown Gazette, Rochester Sun, Ohio County Farmer, Missouri World and Farmer's Home Journal for publication.

On motion the meeting adjourned.
T. J. WARD, Pres.
J. W. FOSTER, Secretary.

Asleep Eight Months.

Hiram McConkey, of Springfield, Jackson county, Mich., has been fast asleep for eight months. Last July he lost the power of speech, was taken sick, went to bed, and has not spoken or opened his eyes since. The other night blood began to flow from his eyes and ears, and suddenly he came and exclaimed: "The doctors are dumbfounded by the phenomenon, and explain it by the supposition that some blood became clotted in his brain, which prevented it from passing active. He remembers nothing since he went into the sound sleep, but can recall everything previous to that time. During the night the questions of the body remained in question, the man neither opening his eyes nor speaking a word. McConkey is a married man, and has of late been granted a pension for service in the war of 1819.

CAMP FIRE COLUMN.

This column is given to the soldiers of the late war, and for which we solicit contributions. It is our desire to make this column an interesting feature of the paper, and we hope to receive incidents and stories of camp life from ex-soldiers each week.

Netter's Raid.

His Attack on Whipperwill Bridge December, 1861.

It was M. E. Cartwright who rode ahead and ordered supper at Farmer Godards.

Capt. Netter wore a slick cap on the raid. During the fight the Rebels shot it off his head.

The Johnnies, in their sleeping apartments, fired through an opening at the bottom of their shanty.

It was John Richman, of Co. E, who went in and threw the Rebels out, like throwing rats out of a corn crib.

Jessie Everly was shot in the foot, it M. G. in the stomach.

The night we rode up to Mr. Randolph's house for the purpose of leaving me, Mr. R's son, who belonged to the 11th Ky Inf., was at home spending the night. You could have played seven up on his shirt tail as he went across a ten acre lot in his night clothes, barefooted, over the frozen ground.

Comrades, you must not think we were low spirited or down in the mouth. While we were concealed in the cliffs it was not the case. We enjoyed ourselves hugely, except comrade Everly, who took a hearty cry every day on account of his wife and children.

Dr. Crittenden, of Londonville, treated us while we were in the cliffs wounded.

Mrs. Isaac Neely, the best lady in the world at that time, came once a day with warm water and sponged and poulticed our wounds.

The Rebels for struck on us. They offered large rewards for us, but we were not for sale.

An ex-Rebel soldier told me that there were 10,000 men in pursuit of Netter when he crossed Green River.

None of our boys exhibited the white feather. Netter would have attacked five hundred Rebels the same as he would twenty-five.

Let's hear from some of the boys who were there.

Brooklyn, Ky.
As I have been living in Kentucky since 1861, I consider myself a Kentuckian by adoption. I enlisted in Kansas, and as the Republicans has offered us more than any paper in the State, I thought I would pitch or some brush to make a light.

As we were after Morgan's guerrillas, we had stopped to water our horses and old "Red" shirt, as we called him, came running down the point asking how far ahead Riley's men were. L. J. Freeman asked him to surrender. He threw his gun, and I drew raine. Freeman caught "Red" shirt's gun and let loose and surrendered.

Let us hear from you, Jim, through the Camp fire.

J. L. SALANG,
Kansas Dragoons.

Huff, Ky.
Look out boys, those in bits of the 11th Ky. Cavalry especially. Here I come with a load of old dry rails to light up the Camp fire to illuminate the dreary years of the past. Boys of Company G, where are you? Do any of you know the doctors names and address that doctored us at Hopkinsville in June and July, 1861? Where are the boys of the Green River Battalion?

Now boys, when we ate "hard tack" and "sow belly" together it made a strong tie of friendship that will last until death.

Let every comrade write through the Camp fire.

JOHN D. METCALFE,
Co. G, 17th Ky. Cav.

Life of General Sherman.

No literary announcement of the year is of greater interest to the general public than that of a comprehensive Life of General Sherman, which is about to be published and sold through agents by the noted house of Hubbard Brothers, of Philadelphia. Admirable biographies of Grant and Sheridan, complete to the time of their death, are already familiar to the public, but a life of the third great commander, to finish the series, has been lacking. The various biographies of Sherman hitherto published have necessarily been incomplete, and even his own memoirs, written in 1875, said almost nothing of his intensely interesting early life, and not a word of course, of the more than twenty years of social activity and fraternity with old comrades since the war.

The work which is now to be issued will splendidly supply the widely felt demand for a history of the great strategic commander. It is being written by General O. O. Howard, a man of fine literary attainments, who knew Sherman better than any other of his comrades now living, and ranked next but one to him in the army, and by Willis Fletcher Johnson, whose ability as a historian is familiar to the reading public of America through his former unusually popular works, which have had millions of readers, and the sales of their last editions enriched an army of book agents. That this history of Sherman, the last of the great Generals, will surpass all others in popularity is not to be doubted.

The story of this great General's career is of a marvelous march from the mountains of time to the sea of eternity. Of the three great war heroes, Sherman was by far the most interesting personally. He was the best known to the public and the best loved for his genial disposition and warm sympathy with the popular heart. He has joined his illustrious compeers in the eternal byouse of the dead. His is the life to study—to emulate—and is a profound inspiration. The forthcoming volume will tell the whole story of his marvellous career, and from the authorship of it will be told in a way that will enthrall the attention and interest of every reader from first to last. It is a book every American will want and use every American youth should read. It will doubtless be the best life of the great chieftain published, and we predict for it wonderful popularity.

ROUSING CROP OF CORN

We have just received a car-load of Merrett's Corn Fertilizer on hands for early planting. We have already begun filling orders. The great and increasing demand for this fertilizer clearly proves it the best suited to our soil of any that is made. Bring in your wagon and secure your fertilizer before it is too late. Our second shipment will be too late for early planting.

Here is your chance to get your money back. We have, at considerable expense, procured a lot of fine seed corn of the "Early Mastodon" variety and will give a package of it with every order for fertilizer. The farmer exhibiting the largest ear of corn at our corn show in the fall raised from this seed and by this fertilizer to receive $10 in Gold as a Premium. Order at once and try for the Premium.

THE OLD MILL

A Weary Tramp That Won the Young Miller a Wife

OH I KNOW any thing about the ruins of this old mill. Well, yes, I should say I do.

It was with stone walls during the war, and had some pretty tough times, some narrow escapes and some hard traps.

After the surrender our army was disbanded, and the most of us was pretty close run. We had nothing and no way to get any thing.

"Well, that don't make much difference," said he, "business is picking up, and you can say, 'I'm getting old.'"

"I have not," I said. "Well, go to the house, said he. 'Tell Kitty (that's my daughter, the only one the Yanks didn't kill) to give you breakfast, and come back, you can work on the dam to-day.'"

"I went over to the mill to the house, I still had my confidence in you, and Mr. White met me on the piazza. I saw tears on her cheeks, and I suppose the uniform reminded her of her own boys. I told her I was going to work for Mr. White, and that he sent me over for breakfast."

Quarterly Court opened up last Monday with a large docket.

Owing to the lack of space we failed to insert the resolutions sent in by the Farmers' Alliance of Little Muddy.

We do not know who was in town last Monday, as we were not here, but learned that a good crowd was here.

J. W. McIntyre is erecting a photograph gallery near the Farmer's House and will soon be ready to do your photographing.

Any merchants wishing to advertise their spring stock in time for Circuit Court should bring their ads in at once.

Carroll Bradley and Bluford Embrey gave us a very pleasant call Monday, and dropped a few wheels into our contribution box.

Dante John Leach has taken unto himself a widow of near Cromwell, and will soon bring her here to battle the storms of life. We welcome them.

New bridges are under contract and across Panther creek near William J. Mansfield, and across Sandy creek near Esquire Pendley's old place.

W. A. Hain has sold his stock of goods to W. R. Dabbs, and he will continue to run the confectionery and bakery. Success to you Will, in our wish.

J. R. Barnett, if he is in jail, is making himself useful. He can, at three cents at one time in a steel trap, do more company of the jail than he can.

W. A. Hain visited Huntsville and vicinity last Sunday and Monday and found that town still with the world. The measles, which have been playing havoc there, have subsided.

Low Noel and Norman Fieger have received pensions under the new law, and the other twelve dollars per month. We do not think it will be long until every one who has applied under the new law will receive theirs.

A. W. Ellis, the lock-keeper of Woodbury, gave us a pleasant call and a dollar besides last Monday. He informs us that over 100 rats have passed through the lock at that place since January 1st, and over 60 many were sent over the dam.

Following is a list of the Quarterly Court jury: Q. M. Hamill, J. E. Northern, Stewart, Frazier, C. T. Whitaker, E. Y. Gandy and David Hays.

The funeral of the late Mrs. M. A. Hays, who died at her home in this town, will be held at 10 o'clock on Monday.

IN MEMORIAM.

Died, February 27th, 1891, at his home near Sunny Lane, this county, Dr. G. C. Cochran, of that awful disease, consumption, after several days of suffering.

Dr. Cochran was about 46 years old. He was a faithful and true member of the Methodist church, having been an earnest worker in that church for many years.

When the dark and cruel days of war put in its appearance, Dr. Cochran was one of the brave boys that went to his country's rescue.

Although quite young, still he unflinchingly faced the enemy until the struggle was over. Returning from the battle-field, he commenced the study of medicine.

and entered the field as a physician in 1878, and continued to practice his profession until the monster death claimed him as his.

When called upon to visit the sick he would always go, in many cases where not a cent was in sight for him.

Dr. Cochran was a good christian gentleman, and will be greatly missed in his community, especially by the poor class of people.

Rev. Summers preached his funeral to a large number of relatives and friends.

He was buried at the old family burying ground at Uncle Newton Orange's, in the presence of hundreds of sorrowing friends. Dr. Cochran leaves a wife and eight children to mourn his departure.

together with a host of others who will miss him as a physician, a friend, and as a true, noble christian worker.

He was particularly fond of his children, and always expressed himself as wanting to live to see them grow to be men and women, but he said it was the Lord's will he was ready and willing to surrender to his command. His last words were: "I am prepared to die. It is such a great relief to know that I am a christian." I hope we all will meet him where there are no sorrows and disappointments.

Very truly,
A. H. Teek,
Morgantown, Mar. 17, 1891.

An Incident of the War.

The following incident was related by Dr. Morehead during the delivery of his sermon last Sunday night.

After the battle of Gettysburg a lieutenant was assisting in carrying the dead and wounded, when he found a headless young man, scarcely old enough to serve in the army, who was mortally wounded.

The kind-hearted officer inquired of the dying man if he could do anything for him. He answered "No. 'Won't you have me bring you some water?" "No sir."

"Can I write a letter to your friends at home?" "No sir, I have no friends that you can write to."

"I repeated the dying man said: 'Can I do something for you, sir?' He replied: 'His soft blue eyes looked him in the face, and he whispered in a low, sweet voice: 'Please look in my ear-ridge-box and get my little testament out.' He did so. 'Now turn to the 11th chapter of John and read the 2nd and 3rd verses.' He did so and read: 'In my father's house are many mansions; if it were not so I would have told you I go to prepare a place for you, and it I go and prepare a place for you I will come again and receive you to myself, that where I am there ye may be also.' 'Now let me tell you, he said, 'I have read the 27th verse.' He looked at me and read: 'Peace I leave with you, my peace I leave with you not as the world giveth give unto you: let your heart be troubled neither let it be afraid.' The dying man whispered: 'That peace is mine. Thank you sir for what you have said, and his spirit was gone from the battle-field.'

The funeral of the late Mrs. M. A. Hays, who died at her home in this town, will be held at 10 o'clock on Monday.

Huntsville.

I will write again, next week if this misses the horrible.

Mr. John E. McKenney moved to this place to day in work in the tie woods.

Mr. George Durkee was in town on the 6th inst. representing Sargent of Evansville.

Died, on the 8th inst. Annie Brown, daughter of T. B. Brown, of heart disease and measles.

Our U. S. Pension Agent is having good luck. He gets a pension for the boys every now and then.

Mr. Wm. Pendley is visiting Mrs. Maybuck's daughter. He is as lively as a cricket for a man of his age.

Mr. Bud Weatray is very sick with the measles. Bud says he would not have had the measles for $50.

Miss Annie (Mayhugh) received a fine organ as a present from her mother. Now boys, come and let's have music.

Mr. Letch Brown says if he can't sell his land he will go back to Adamsville, where he bought the ring for a Christmas present.

Rev. Mr. Doyle has moved here from Ohio county. We have plenty of reverends, there being four in town. The town ought to be safe.

Rev. Jas. Burden said the other day that he had the measles forty years ago and now had a basket of them. People don't often have backsets forty years afterward.

BASKET.

The foreman of the Sun is sorely afflicted. He has a sty and a boil. He is not feeling very religious at present.

"Blooded" stock is selling at very high prices here at present. Mr. Robert Tanner bought a 23 year old filly for $250.

The other night our little town received quite a scare. The cause was a false alarm of fire. It proved to be a man who had imbibed too much "ranger" who was ringing the ferry bell and shouting for the ferryman.

Saturday, March 7th, will be a memorable day in the annals of Rochester. It was the day upon which the school tax was voted. From sunrise until after dark our little town was in constant excitement.

The anti-tax men fought nobly and well to protect their homes and property from the camp of high tax. But their efforts were futile against the trickery of their opponents. The polls closed with three majority in favor of the tax, with five votes to be contested. We do not know what the decision will be.

EL VERONDA.

South Hill.

Be patient, Hub, the creek is up and I couldn't get to you.

The measles are plentiful on this vicinity. Be careful boys.

Saw log men are having a fine time getting their logs to market.

South Hill is on a boom as there are two new store houses and another blacksmith and wood shop going to be built in the near future; then listen for the cars to whistle.

I see some inquiries as to legislative timber in the Harpeth valley. Such timber is a natural growth of South Hill. We suggest John Hutchins, A. J. Drake, Geo. Bradley, S. T. Carrell and Frank Grubb, all true blue wood tough hickory.

One Mr. Lee is putting up a saw and gill mill near Annes Belkley, which is a great help to the logging men of this place. Such progress and industry I never saw. Things were not that way when I was a boy. But these are fast days and we have to get up and get on or we will get left.

Whining great snows to your paper I remain the old man of South.

General Sherman could, at the close of the war, call almost 5,000 negroes by name, according to a statement recently made by the "Herald."

Do you want to save from 25 to 50 cents on every dollar you spend?

Death of Markus Porter, Cal'd. Markus Porter, son of Rev. R. M. Porter, died at the residence of Jas. H. Carson, the 4th inst.

His sisters and I were with him when he died. He was 19 years of age and was loved and respected by all who knew him. He was buried on the 5th inst. in the presence of many mourning and sympathizing friends. In a discourse delivered by Uncle Jas. Carson at the grave he told the people that during Markus' stay with him he had proven a faithful christian boy. I sympathize with the bereaved relatives and friends.

Anal Backs Days.

That there is a time for all things, but it is about time now for everybody to quit so much gabbling and go to work.

That when she was a girl you never see these head-dandy tops going into church and setting with the girls on the women's side of the house.

That she don't see why they don't marry and end the agony.

That the way the youngsters have got carrying on in church should be seen after by Judge Thompson.

That she don't like this way that people have these days of passing one another on the streets without shaking hands.

That it is a sin the way some folks have trying to stifle the press by jumping onto it and kicking the editor about nothing.

That she thinks Uncle Matt is so handsome, in fact sweet, and says she 'speaks him over about time the May apples bloom.

And says if she has look and her old hens lay well she is going to have a new calico dress by the time Judge Forgy gets back.

That if them cars does come through here she don't want to live any longer. Says she knows they will kill every chicken she's got.

That Bob Forsyth the other day caught a coon that had been driven to the hills by the back water. Says he has been coon hunting long enough to have caught a million.

That they say the same minute Lon Neel's old steer died he called at the post office and got a pension and the boys think he ought to give him a decent burial. Lon says he will not bury him but will allow him to keep his hide.
